

Air Attack Diagram

All AA fire is assessed at the point where the attacking aircraft marker is placed against the target ship. In this example the cruiser, DD1, DD2 and CV add their fire as aircraft reaches the attack position. DD3 does not engage the attacking aircraft because its line of fire is obscured by the carrier. However, it may be held in reserve against an attack from the opposite direction. All AA fire dice rolls occur only once in each attack sequence. All attacking aircraft counters are placed against the target ship and all AA fire is adjudicated before any air attacks take place.