LONDON RESISTANCE

ORGANISATION & COMMAND

A group of resistance fighters may be led by one individual. Although he will have no formal command or title over the rest of the men in the group, they will look to him for decision making and leadership.

Any one fighter may be assigned as the leader of a resistance detachment. He has the profile relevant to the weapon he is armed with, but receives a +1 on all dice rolls. He also has a save of 6, a special rule of positive influence, 5 inches and a point's value of 1.75.

DESCRIPTION

This brave citizen of London has been called to the defence of the capital in a time of his country's greatest need. Driven by a desire to defend his homeland and avenge his fallen comrades, he fills his bag with ammunition, takes up his trusty Lee Enfield rifle and heads out into the rubble covered streets.

With no rifle, machine gun or pistol to hand, this ardent freedom fighter chose to make his own weapons in order to wage war on the alien invaders. In one hand he carries a petrol filled bottle, plugged with a drenched rag, in the other he holds a lit match. His bag holds two more cocktails.

He won't give up until both his bombs and stamina are gone.

RESISTANCE FIGHTER: Pistol 0.75 PTS.

This veteran of the horrors of war had hoped he would never again fire his Webley .45 pistol in anger. But yesterday he took down the velvet lined pistol case from the cabinet where it had rested since 1945. greased the mechanism and loaded a round of bullets into the cylinder of the weapon. And, with a sense of dread and fear, he ventured onto the war torn streets of his beloved London to team up with others, who like him were not prepared to give up their homes to the alien menace.
